Staco Systems has reached a major milestone – they’re celebrating 50 years of excellence. They’re proud, not only of their global reputation as a switch manufacturer, but also of their success as a leading provider of a variety of high-reliability products for mission-critical applications.

A veteran in the industry, Staco Systems has designed and manufactured switches since its commencement in 1958. During the early years, a small manufacturing and assembly team accomplished the first series 30 switch which was used in a Fokker F-27 in 1960. Fifty years later, Staco Systems has evolved into an internationally recognized, high-tech endeavor with over 60 experienced experts in manufacturing, engineering, sales, and quality control. Their product line has expanded to include rugged keyboards and keypads, electronic controllers, LED products, and panel assemblies for over a hundred applications worldwide.
